Gen. U.S. Grant and party has arrived at Hong Kong The party have had a very prosperous trip and the General is in excellent health.

The northern Republican papers are fast changing from Gen. Grant to Secretary Sherman, advocating the latter as the Republican Candidate for President in 1880. Since his last great success as a financier he is justly looked upon as the strongest man in the coun-

Poor Senator Logan, he fought throughout the late war with distinction only to be completely annihilated, scalped, by one Lowe a Greenbacker, an Alabama bull-dozer, who no gentlemen could fight without disgracing himself. Joking aside, we think Gen. Logan showed his good sense by not fighting the fellow; a man of such a character.

The last legislature passed an act cutting down the fees of all the county officers in the state, but the act only referred to Pitt county alone. Therefore the County Solicitor, Mr. B. R. Moore, give it as his legal opinion that it only referred to the officers of Pitt county, he communicated with the Ats torney General of the state and received the following answer, which seems to settle the question for the present:

"STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, "OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL, "RALEIGH, April 29, 1879.

"My Dear Sir: The act referred to in your letter is in Chap. 293, Laws 1879, and I toink, by its title, is to be taken as only applicable to Pitt county. It entitled 'An Act to Regulate the Fees of Certain Officers in Pitt County."

Yours truly, Thos. S. KENAN. B. R. Moore, Esq., Solicitor for the State.

We are informed that there has been one more charge of the Light Horse Democracy in our neighboring county of Brunswick. This time by the rear guard, and ended in the capture of that efficient and trustworthy officer, Wm. Brown, Deputy Sheriff and keeper of the county jail. The squadron was under the command of Capt. Chinnis, of Town Creek, who signed his name with a title in the face of the earnest protest of a large majority of the legal voters every principle of Republican or Democratic form of Government to which the people of that good old peaceful county have been educated by their good fathers of old '76.

A man by the name of Corporal Davis, we understand, is now on patrol duty at the jail.

The other squad under the command of Capt. Rourk, of Shallotte, charged brayely and boldly upon Capt, Walker, in the hope of an easy capture and rich spoils of the Treasury, but came out second best, Capt. W. having taken the precaution to remove all of the commissary stores of value before the attack. So disgusted was Capt. Rourk at his failure to cayture the most vital and pecessarily desirable of ail stores, the cash box, for the support of his hungry and weather beaten squad, that he resigned and beat a hasty retreat to the suburbs of Green Swamp, leaving Capt. W. master of the field. There is a new move on foet we are informed, not laid was sent to jail, down in the regular politicisms hook, which may very soon test the legality of the right of any class of persons wilfully make inroads, and invade the constitutional rights of the citizens of our neighboring county, and will, no doubt, result in forever putting at rest the question, as to the right of any set of men to set aside the expressed will of the people, and their power to cast the legal franchises of honest citizens the legal franchises of honest citizens into the waste basket at will.

We propose to publish the full hisory of the Brunswick election as soon as time will permit, as it will prove of following written on it: great interest to all of the people of that county.

EDITOR POST—DEAR SIR: In my communication signed X, in your issue of the 20th inst., instead of "there is be addressed to THE WILMINGTON but four offices on the river," it should be "few offices"—there are six or eight indifferently kept. There would be fitteen to twenty if the mails went by land. The error above may provoke a reply, if it does please notify me on a postal card, or read me a copy, and I will write more at length. We can write down, or vote down, the river mail at any season of the year. WILMINGTON, N. C.,

SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 4, 1879.

Whatever may be said of the great debate on the army appropriation bill there is no doubt that the closing speech of Senator Conkling covered the expiring hours of that fiery encounter with a halo of oratorical splendor which will make it forever memorable. That consummate master of speech on the occasion seems to have grasped the whole subject and carried dismay to his opponents, as well as a most glorious triumph to his friends. Speaking from high vantage ground, both on account of his own emminence and the empire which he represents, he so completely comprehended every feature of the controversy, that every sentence carried conviction. It is fortunate to us. who are permitted to live in a period when such principles find a champion so invincible and so magnifi-

GRANT AND THE PRESIDENCY. The Post has great reverence for ex-President Grant; we know he is a great General-the ablest, probably, in the world, at this time. He is a statesman of no mean standing; his conduct during and since the war has ingratiated him in the affections and gratitude of all lovers of the Union. But he has twice been President of the United States, therefore he can afford to stand aside and allow another, who will make equally as good, if not better, President than himself, and if all reports are true, he does not desire a third term. We do not believe the leaders of the party will force it upon him. Hon. Jno. Sherman, an old abolitionist before the war, a man who stood by Abraham Lincoln during the war, fought side by side with Thaddeus Stevens for pegro suffrage, immediately after the war, when the southern states were admitted back into the Union on the terms marked out by Senator Sherman and Mr. Stevens, and when the kuklux, white league, white liner rifle clubs and · southern bullsdozers, commenced persecuting, whipping and killing Republicans, white and black, Mr. Sherman stood by and did everything in his power as a Senator to protect and defend them, and if his advice had been taken and followed by the legislative and executive departments of the government every state south, with two exceptions, would now be Republican. Therefore every Republican south, out of common gratitude, ought to support John Sherman for the nomination in the next National Convention, and if he is nominated, as the chances now seem to indicate, southern Union men can and will do more for him than for any other candidate, from the fact that he would protect them in all their rights when elected.

It is well-known that President Grant and ex Senator Sherman are strictly personal friends, that the friends of President Grant had rather if their favorite will not accept, that Mr. Sherman should be the Republican nominee than any other man in the party; Mr. Sherman would have the undivided support of the monied men of the country; he would be supported by the entire liberal Republicans, headed by Secretary Schrutz and others, which certainly gives him the advantage of all other candidates; he is what is known as a stalwart Republican; he does not believe in come promising with secessionists or other violators of the law. We feel very confident that Mr. Sherman will be the next President of the United Statesthe successor of Rutherford B. Hayes.

COL. STEELE'S HISTORICAL AC-

CURACY. We have before made rather a casual allusion to Col. Steele's speech in the House. At nearly the first words of his speech he was pleased to speak of the "carpet-baggers" as "a swarm of hungry political vultures" who "came flocking south to gorge their ravenous carcasses upon what little the war had left," who "possessed themselves of lucrative offices of states where they never intended to remain" except where the "hope of plunder offered a temptation." He spoke of them also as "beings" and "creatures." But right in say:-"Notwithstanding the assertion often made to the contrary by those who either did not know the facts or who wilfully perverted them, the term honest citizen of the north who reburdens and participate in their joys, These are always welcomed." This often "participate in their joys."

gentleman still resides here "bearing pressd and outraged people against this life-not even in a mirror.

their burdens," doing a large business, official injustice. The idea that the and remembers what Col. Steele said as hordes of night riders, burning negro well as we do. On another occasion cabins, drawing negroes and whites when this same brilliant orator was from their beds and terribly mutilating addressing a Democratic meeting at them, plotting and executing murders, Bladenboro, it happened that a New were in any sense the conservators of Yorker who had a saw-mill near by, good order or the preservers of the sat on the platform as vice president. public peace, is to absurd to be thought Several other carpet-baggers were there of. There has never been any evidence in the crowd who did twice or four that the organization had any such times as much business as the New Yorker, and it was noticed that Col. Steele was very cordial towards the New Yorker. The next morning's Wil-New Yorker was a "high-toned gentle- of Mass., Z. Chandler of Michigan, dens," but left the state very soon, right smartly in disgust and considerably out of pocket. Col. Steele, as we recollect it, was very noisy in those days abusing as carpet-baggers as respectable didn't vote as he did.

Now, we have something to say about 'swarms of hungry vultures" who come into North Carolina after the war, and were called carpet-baggers. Precisely known, but it is known that only a few say concerning the subject may perhaps | box. make it a little unpleasant for Mr. Steele if Mr. Conger should find it out, or even Mr. Frye. Because a member of Congress gets in an uncomfortable fix if he does not confine himself very nearly to facts. In the first place these 'vultures" swarmed into the Constitutional Convention to the number of about fifteen (15), the whole number being one hundred and twenty. In the legislature which followed the proportion was about the same, the whole number in both houses being one huns dred and seventy. This "swarming" was followed as thus: In the Governor, Lt-Governor and five other executive officers, making seven, two were carpetbaggers; of the five on the bench of the Supreme Court, not one; on the bench of the Superior Court of twelve, one of the eighty-seven counties as it was at that time, not over ten sheriffs were carpet-baggers; and the other state office cers were in about the same proportion. In the members of Congress it went a little higher, and out of the nine memone Senator. The total "swarm" ought not to have been very terrific to a million people.

Mr. Steele is equally unfortunate when he charges the carpet-baggers with being as "vultures" and "plunderers." The bonds which were authorized by the convention and the legislature of 1868-'9 were issued as follows:

R. H. Cowan, Pres. W., C. & R. R. $2,000,000 W. J. Hawkins, Pres. R. & G. R. R. 3,200,000 Geo, W. Swepson, Pres. W. N. C.R.

Every one of these gentlemen were native North Carolinians, and all excepting Mr. Sloan and Mr. Jones were Democrats. Two Democrats, Mr. Cowan and Mr. Stubbs have died, but all the rest are to-day Democrats, excepting Mr. Jones, who is also dead, and Mr. Sloan, living, both of whom were Republicans. It is not any part of our purpose in this connection to comment on the conduct of these gentlemen, but what we do say is that if anybody is to be arraigued for mismanagement of these credits it is those who received them. And we now challenge an investigation on the items of financial mismanagement in this state between the Democrats before reconstruction and since their return to power, and carpet-baggers. The actual authorized debt of the state when reconstruction occurred was $17,531,945. We speak by the book when we say "authorized." Besides this there had been a state confederate debt, which was $18,000,000 when the war closed, and which was repudiated by order of Andrew Johnson. The state government during the war had squandered nearly all our magnificent school and University fund, as also the bank stocks, the private and public charities. Col. Steele was one of the gentlemen who looked approvingly upon that sort the midst of his tirade he proceeded to of policy. If he and his party had not been interrupted in their policy the state would have been worse off by at least $10,000,000 than is new.

JOHN ADAMS DIX.

This most eminent and remarkable citizen, died in New York on the 21st of April. His long experience in public affairs, his rare accomplishments, patriotism, had left for him more nearly a complete career than often falls to the lot of man. He was born in the town of Bosco-

wan. New Hampshire, which was near the seat of the Websters and other eminent families, on the Merrimac river. His father, Timothy Dix, was a Lieutenant Colonel in the army, and was an eminent citizen, was the owner of large tracts of land, in the then wild parts of New Hampshire, beyond the White Mountains, on the upper forks of the Connecticut and the Androscogin, where there was a town named for him, and where the summer tourist now 'Dixville Notch;" was a cadet in the army at the age of 14, and when he became an Ensign he was the youngest officer in the service, from which he retired at the age of 28 with the rank of Lieutenant, and married. Having studied law, he became a Jackson Democrat, and in 1830, was Adjutant General of the state of New York. In 1844 he was elected to the United States Senate, succeeding Silas Wright. He entered Buchanan's Cabinet in its expiring and disgraceful hours, as Secretary of the Treasury, and stood with Stanton and Holt, as against the traitors. He became in course, a Major General in the army, Governor of New York and Minister to France. He died one of the noblest of Americans.

There are thousands of colored people on the Mississippi river awaiting transportation north, from the poor, bulldozed southern white people, but the telegrams tell us that the steamboots, controlled by the Democrats, refuse to take them. And yet if you believe what the Democratic papers have been saying for the past fifteen years, you will think that the colored people are a curse to the south.

The southern Democrats wanted the negroes all sunk, or they tried to make thenorthern people believe that thenegro was a curse to the south. But now the negro is trying to better his condition by emigrating among friends and a terrible wail goes up about the outrage of taking all the colored labor from the south. If the southern people will agree to pay them for their labor and treat them as human being, allow them equal civil and political rights, then,

The New York Herald says if Grant is the only Republican who can carry the country the party is very weak. The Herald pays a very just compliment to Mr. Secretary Sherman and insinuates that he is the strongest Presidential candidate yet spoken of, in either eningly, according to their mood, call emnly sweet dirge. At the grave were the "black Sunday." In answer to your kindly request that I should write you when I succeeded in bringing away the remains of my husband and children who on that day fell martyrs to the unhallowed hate of the two hundred so-called "best citizens of Kemper county," Miss., I now address you.

For weary months I have planned and been disappointed in my hopes, till not even soiled. These coffins were inclosed in boxes lined with zinc and occupant was written thereon. These details were very grateful to me.

I left Washington the morning of the 5th of the present month, passing through Harrisburg, where my son Clay joined me, and we proceeded to Lock Haven, the county seat of Clinton county. Pennsylvania. Here we were met by Mr. J. C. Sigmund, of the town of Salona, which lies in a rich valley between two mountain ranges, about five miles from Lock Haven. My kind friends advised me not to attempt the meeting with those, my beloved, who are called dead; but with me, in my thoughts awake, and in my dreams asleep, they are always present, and I felt that next to meeting them in heaven, I desired to be with them once more on earth. All nature was robed in spotless snow, as if in emblem of their own purity. The mountain-tops on every side pointed upward, and the evergreens on their sides reminded me that heaven is eternal. I need not tell you of the graceful welcome extended by Mr. Sigmund's family and the friends of his household who were there. You can easily perceive that those who had so generously proffered me for my friends the hospitality of a grave among the his great wealth, his venerable years, knew how to make it acceptable. I his unswerving integrity, his lofty cannot tell you of that night. I wonder that even I, who have lived through so much, did not die before it was over. And yet, O. my God! the delightful happiness of once more being assembled an unbroken family circle under the same roof-my husband, myself-Cornelia the first to awaken parental love in our hearts, Johnnie, the first sacrifice on the altar of filial love-Clay and Willie. Traly, dear madam, amid all my sorrows I always remember I am his wife and their mother. I hug it ever to my heart as the sweetest, most comforting memory, giving promise that the Father will not forget me altogether, however much I may be called to endure. In the hours of the night I lived over the beautiful twenty years of my married life to the last, and over and again could I hear Johnnie, my wanders amid the gloomy crags of brave, delicate boy, the last words he spoke to me: "Mother, if I leave father, hey will kill him!" He did not leave him, and, true to his words, the vile demon killed "anybody who gets in the way of my shooting Judge Chisolm;" killed him, first shooting off, with deliberation, his hand, and then piercing his heart. I heard my husband's last whisper, "Jesus, Father-wife, precious wife." Cornelia's last sweet words as gave her a white livy: "Mamma, you've a sick baby this morning."

Again I saw her little white fingers hold it up and whisper, "Mamma, now fine!"
"Yes," said I, "it is the emblem of purity," and over and again she whispered the word "purity." I told her the angels in heaven were not more pure than my baby-girl. She smiled back at me, and in an hour God had heated her wounds, and made her well in heaven.

"Of the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church." But it is hard to perceive why the bravest and grandest of men; the fairest, gentless, most fear. less of boys; the most delicate, winsome rosebud of girls should in time of 'peace' (?) (anarchy) be called on to lie by the brutal hands of those incarnate demons who were styled men-to die for a country which "does not see the legal means to punish the guilty murderers"—hard for the wife and mother of those three to comprehend May that God who has justice as well as mercy among his attributes environ with his direst curses the apologists, the instigators, and the foul perpetrators, of the murder of the five persons who fell victims to their hate on the 29th day of April, A D. 1877. Amen. The morning after my arrival at Salona I was invited down to the family parlor; there I found all assembled. The son, young Mr. Sigmund, read a portion of the Scripture appropriate to the circumstances, and all kneeling, a lady present raised her soft low voice in prayer. The prayer was not a burden of complaints that the Lord had so neglected as, us we are prone too often to make, but seemed an and not until then, will this stampede His mercies. The day proved bitter cold, with a driving rain direct from earnest expression of thanks for all the north, and a heavy snow under foot; yet, when all repaired to the Methodist Church about 10 o'clock, the large house was full. In the pulpit were the pastor, the Rev. L. G. Heck, the Rev. R. H. Fletcher, the Rev. Mr. Diven, and the Rev. L. L. Haughawaut. The Rev. Mr. Diven was the principal speaker. He recapitulated many of the facts, paid a beautiful

ment erected, and bade them note the moral it would point. It was said that WASHINGTON, March 29, 1879.

MY DEAR FRIEND: One month from to-day and two years will have passed since the terrible 29th of April, 1877, which those who blackened with crime that sunny Sabbath, jestingly or threat-gathered a great number, and after the burial service once more did mother earth take into her bosom those who are dear to all who love patriotism and filial devotion. I cannot love or thank the people enough for their kind sympathy, but I can and will honor them, for their genuine loyal devotion to their country's friends which prompted all this. I did not hope to remove my dear ones to a sweeter spot for their last rest than they had before, or that the wild bird's song would trill forth a my heart grew sick, but on the 4th of softer melody, or that the flowers above the present month I received from our them would shed a sweeter perfume. true friend, Mr. Charles Rosenbaum, a It was not that the place where they telegram telling me they had been sent were already resting was not endeared by express. Three days later came a there; near by is the pleasant cottage letter giving me particulars. When to which my husband took me as his they were disinterred the coffins were young wife, where were born Cornelia found in so perfect a state they were and Clay. All these sweet memories rose to bid me let them sleep on undisturbed. But no, I could not let them rest in the soil or the state which for soldered, and the name of each dear two years has failed even to put the seal of her disapproval on a crime which appalled Satan himself, and caused his lesser demons to cry out and hide themselves in horror. They now rest on a beautiful hillside at whose evergreens the spring-bird's song will trill above them. Gentle hands will wreath fre h flowers above their breasts, and modest violets and pures white lilies will perfume the air. The rocks on the mountains are fit symbols of the strength of the firm patriotism of the freemen forming the community, and they will be the last people to

My long letter has now closed, if it conveys to you the information so kindly asked it is well; if not take for my apology the great difficulty for me of all others on earth to write a descriptive letter on this subject, which is the one emotion of my life. Very respectfully your friend. Mrs. W. W. CHISOLM.

The Aspects of the South

The Charleston News and Courier has a correspondent who insists that the south will be far better off if the negroes grand scenery of their mountain home, all leave and their places are filled by whites. The News and Courier concurs editorially with this view, except that it does not "concur "in the opinion that efforts should be made "to hurry the negroes out of the south." It does not think that the people of South Carolina are prepared for an influx of thousands of white laborers if they can get them. The farmers are not ready to give the wages that the whites expect, nor to furnish them the homes

It appears from these suggestions that the south begins to realize the fact that the labor of that section sooner or later under the existing hegira must be changed in its complexion. The negroes have been oppressed until they cannot longer endure their oppressions and are bound to seek new homes where their rights of citizenship, property and life will be respected and protected, and where the exercise and expression of a political opinion that may not be in consonance with that of his white neighbor will be free from persecution and oppression. To secure these ends the colored people are breaking away from the south and seeking homes elsewhere. How soon the end of the exodus will be reached it is impossible to tell, but under the feelling of wide-spread dissatisfaction that comes of a sense of deep wrong it is not probable that the flood will be materially checked until the fountain is exhausted. Then a white population must fill the vacancy, if it is ever filled, for the negro will seldom be found turning back to the scene of his former oppression and ostracism. Then the south will be more solid, politically, than it ever has been, though the measure of its political strength in the government will be largely reduced in the scale of representation. No citizen imbued with Republican sentiment can live in the south any more than the negro, for the ostracism that has forced. negro out of that section is for political opinion sake, and would be as merciless toward the white as the black Republican. Under these circumstances, only Democrats can hope to be received there in the future with respect and toleration. Those who emigrate from the north and west into the south, will be regarded as carpet-baggers, and must endure all the prejudices that attach to that class. The Charleston News and Courier threatens "vigorous retalliation on the part of the "state should any number of convictions follow the pending indictments in the United States Courts for violations of the supervisors law, as it is termed." The Democrats bulldoze to the last. Let the state retaliate; it will only advance the ends of justice. The News and Courier follows its threat with the innocent remark that "the policy of the present administration, as of the Hampton administration, is a cisely; that is what is supposed. The policy of amnesty and peace." Republicans now in prison and in duress under the policy of amnesty and peace inaugurated by Hampton can explain that.

The New Orleans Times, in noticing The Democratic Congress has an elephant on its hands; they undertook to bulldoze the President, but he didn't bulldoze worth a cent. Now they see their mistake, and long faces are the consequence.

Some people are so constituted as to be unable to see anything beautiful in this life—not even in a mirror.

a space in your valuable columns. On the 21st inst., a respectable dressed white man made his appearance at this place and gave his name as Sylvester Grant, and went to some of the colored men and called a meeting for the purpose of organizing a rifle club in this county, stating to the meeting that he had orders from Gen. Grant, his own dear uncle, to organize rifle clubs all through these and adjoining counties; he told them they must organize, elect a President, Secretary and enroll their names and subscribe fifty cents apice to pay the express charges on their uniforms and guns, which would be forwarded free of all expense to members of the club, except, express charges, as soon as he sent on the lists of names, He was a good talker and a good christian to all appearance; he had a meeting the following evening, at which he said the had a club of forty organized at Wilson Chappel, and would go and see them, and then go to Sampson county and return here on Friday right. One of the men came to me and asked what it meant, this getting up of rifle clubs? "I told him, I had not heard anything about it." He told me what the man said, "and I told him it was the first I had heard of it, and not to listen to anybody on such authority, for he was some humbug, and wanted to get fifty cents apice from all who would pay him." Some of them asked if he had seen me about it? He said no, that Irvin Beaman thought he had better not say anything to me under a day or two. I was told by one that was at the meeting, that he said he had no friends only the colored people, that his life was in danger, for the interest he had for them. I was told that he

J. C. LAWTON. Fertilizers for Hot House Plants When a plant is in a bad condition it is a mistake to apply a stimulating fertilizer. The causes of ill-health are many, but the most general one with those who had no experience in the care of plants is over watering. Plants to live, must have water; therefore the more water the better seems to be the reasoning, and the consequences is starved, nearly leafless sticks in pots of unable to discover any trace of the deletemud. In the majority of cases withholding the water is the one thing needed, and with invalids a stimulating tate to use myself, or recommend to others, fertilizer is the one thing, of all others, not needed. For hard wooded, slow growing plants very fine bone-flour of bone-sold by seedmen for the purpose, is perhaps the best; a few tablespoonfuls being forked into the soil of the pot, soft wooded, quick growing, a iquid fertilizer may be used. of the plant requires. No invariable rule can be given. English reports from South Africa indicate that the Zulu Generals have a hard time of it. It is said that Cetywayo put Matshana to death for disobedience of orders in attacking the camp at Isandula, instead of the General and his forces, whom he was ordered to stop. He is also said to have put to death the chief Indunas, who attacked Korke's Drift, saying it was bad enough to take the army so ents or falsification: that it has the marks far, but it was still worse after the heavy losses at Isandula. It is also said that the Indunas who led the mechanical admixture of alcohol and aroattack on Col. What the old King will do with the commanders who suffered defeat a Ginglelora, can scarcely be imagined. If he put a victorious chief to death, what will he do with a defeated one? Emigrants. The New York Times gives the following advice to emigrants: "Not a few laboring men in this region have thought of going south to take the place of the negroes who have come north. They believe they could better their condition; but it is very doubtful if they could. The wages of agricultural hands in Mississippi and Louisiana are not more than $6 to $8 a month, with a peck of meal and three or four pounds of bacon for each person per week. The work is hard; the climate trying; the pay not always sure. Men desirous to migrate will usually consult their interest by going west, where law and order are maintained, and where progress is making.

torially, in that paper. L'Assommoir, a Novel, by Emile Zola translated fram the French by John Stirling, is published this day by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, and is one of the most wonderful novels ever printed, and for intensity of real ism, has no equal, having already attained a sale in France of over One Hundred Thousand Copies. "The publication in English of this, the greatest novel of the greatest French realistic novelist, is, in all senses, an experiment. The 'L'Assommoir' probes to the utter. most depths the springs of degradation and depravity among the lower orders of the Parisian population, and the picture presented has not a single touch | forms a comic hoppery of varnish. There it is in all its hideous and sickening reality, even the coarse local slang is reproduced in such boldness as to make the reader start, and Zola stops at nothing. He takes his subject as he finds it, and reproduces it with the most scrupulous fidelity. Such a novel and such a novelist as the 'L'Assommoir,' and Zola are new to the American public, and Mr. Stirling, at the instance of his publishers, has undertaken the herculean task of puris fying the 'Assommoir,' that our readers may get the gist of the great book and yet not be shocked. It is but just to say that he has done his work with much skill and judgment. Mr. Stirling gives the story, its animus and its vivid local coloring, but he does so in a refined way, and, strange to say, he has not weakened the 'Assommoir by so doing. He shows Gerviase, her struggles to be an honest woman, her troubles, and her final fall into the slough of sin, ending in a pauper's death. He shows throw light upon such a subject as an Coupeau, at first a good citizen and an open barrel of gunpowder, for instance. estimable man, then passing through all the stages of drunkenness to his end | finally decided that the length of the by delirium tremens in the hospital. ordinary sermon should never exceed The smooth-tongued Lantier, Nana, one-fifth the duration of a three-act who took naturally to sin, and Goujet the manly and virtuous blacksmith, are all there, but both they and their experiences are toned down. We would advise all who cannot read the 'Assommoir' in the original French to read Mr. Stirling's version of it. They will find the book a curiosity, to say the least of it." "Dournof," a Russian Story, by Henry Greville, is published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia. "Dournof" was written in Russia during Madame Greville's residence in St. Petersburg, and is a graphic story of Russian life containing careful studies of Russian character, which are most admirable, works. The story bears some resemblance to "Dosia" and to "Pretty Little Countess Zina," but is more interesting, all the characters being master-pieces of character drawing, while there is an ease and naturalness about each of the characters that makes the volume very entertaining and very enjoyable. 45 Years Before the Public. THE CENUINE

DYSPETSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLane's LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression Dr. McLane's The genuine McLane's LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation. dec'8-1y.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

THE SUN FOR 1879

THE SUN FOR 1879.

The Sun will be printed every day during the year to to come. Its purpose and method will will be the same as in the past: To present all the news in a readable shape and to tell truth though the heavens fail. The Sun has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything save the Truth and and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy weich an honest newspaper neel have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the contidence and faleadship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any otyer American Journal.

The Sun is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the pion man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the roques every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men or measures are in agreement with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and Constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected wife placed in the President's office, where he still remains— President's office, where he still remains—
It speaks out for the right. That is the Sun's idea of independence. In this respect
there will be no change in its programme sun's idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

The sun has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any yerr gone by. The Sun will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people. The Sun does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every particitic American, whatever his be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political ideas or allegiance. To these ele-ments of interest may be added the pro-bability that the Democrats will control both Houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration and the spread and strengthening every-where of a healthy abhorence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well-known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth will be an important part of the Sun's w rk We have the means of making the SUN, as a political, a literary and a general news-paper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post-paid, is 55 cents a month, or $6,50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7,70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of The Sun is also furnished separately at $1,20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address
